

Uzbekistan Airways signs lease agreement with SMBC Aviation Capital for Airbus A321 NEO aircraft

2024 24 September

Uzbekistan Airways signed a lease agreement with SMBC Aviation Capital, one of the world's leading aircraft leasing companies, for 2 Airbus A321 NEO aircraft. The aircraft are scheduled to deliver in 2026 and will come from SMBC Aviation Capital's direct Airbus orderbook.

These Airbus A321 NEO aircraft are a new aircraft type for Uzbekistan Airways and will allow the airline to expand its routes into Europe and South East Asia.

Shukhrat Khudaykulov, Chairman of the Board of Uzbekistan Airways, said:

“Uzbekistan Airways has set an ambitious goal to become a leader in air transportation on Central Asia region. It is planned to constantly expand the route network, increase the number of flights and efficiently operate them on new Airbus A320/A321 NEO family. This type of aircraft will help to provide the necessary conditions for a comfortable flight and exciting journey. We will undoubtedly achieve all these goals thanks to receiving the new aircraft from SMBC Aviation Capital.”

Conor Stafford, Head of Airline Marketing, SMBC Aviation Capital said:

“We are delighted to welcome Uzbekistan Airways as a new customer to SMBC Aviation Capital and we look forward to many successful years of partnership together. These new tech, fuel efficient A321 NEO aircraft will support Uzbekistan Airways as they expand their route network through South East Asia and Europe.”
